

SMASH AND SCRAPE!

Spotted Lanternflies

Smash!

Spotted Lanternflies

Spotted lanternflies are bad for U.S. farms and forests. If you see this invasive pest, take a picture, note the location, smash, and report it.

1 inch (actual size)

Smash and Scrape!

Egg Mases

Just one spotted lanternfly egg mass can have 30–50 eggs. If you see an egg mass, take a picture, note the location, smash it, scrape it off the surface, and report it.

Use the QR code to report a suspected spotted lanternfly. For questions, email lanternfly@agr.georgia.gov.